D. SCHUMACHER LANDSCAPING

LANDSCAPE ARTISANS

Our Mission

D. Schumacher Landscaping creates landscape environments aimed at bringing delight to those who design, enter and view them. We are an engaging team of caring and proud landscape professionals with a common goal; providing the absolute best in landscape construction, maintenance, irrigation and masonry work. We use our hundreds of years combined experience, working closely with architects, developers, contractors, property managers and homeowners alike to create environments that are both aesthetically captivating and practical.

A tradition rooted in pride

Schumachers have been working the soil for generations. My grandfather's family farm in Lexington inspired my father, John, to start a landscaping business in 1965 that eventually became one of the largest landscape companies in Massachusetts. I am proud to continue that tradition with D. Schumacher Landscaping.

What truly connects D. Schumacher Landscaping to the Schumacher tradition is pride. Pride in creating work of lasting value. Pride in achieving results that surpass expectations, that honor the vision that inspired them.

Ours is a dedication to quality that recalls an earlier era when working with the land was a skill acquired through years of hard work and apprenticeship. And this is why I describe the people of D. Schumacher Landscaping as landscape artisans.

The Schumacher family extends far beyond those with the last name of Schumacher. Our employees—often related themselves—are unusually committed to the company and can lay equal claim to the proud reputation associated with the Schumacher name.

Although, in a sense, D. Schumacher Landscaping is a relatively young company, we draw on the experience, resources, and spirit that have defined the Schumacher tradition for generations. I look forward to building on that proud tradition by making our clients' visions into beautiful reality.

Perfection comes naturally

Quality landscape construction endures. There are quick ways to get immediate impact, but over time they provide a poor return on investment. Only experienced professionals have the ability to bring to life an environment that is a synthesis of lasting quality and artistic vision.

“Perfection” is a lofty term, but it truly describes the goal of every project that D. Schumacher Landscaping manages. Our employees understand both the gritty nature and the aesthetic spirit of landscape construction as only dedicated professionals can. They are crafts people who take pride in the quality of their work because it is an expression of who they are as individuals.

As a result, D. Schumacher Landscaping projects are characterized by a fastidious attention to detail and an uncommon passion for perfection.

We work closely with our clients to develop a shared sense of purpose and an intimate understanding of the result they desire. Then we approach the task with single-minded focus, cutting no corners on preparation, quality of materials, or execution.

Our work endures over time—and, consequently, so do our relationships with our clients.

Making light work of heavy lifting

There are no easy landscaping jobs. And there are some that are truly daunting, involving a scale, effect, or timetable that appears improbable to achieve. Our reputation is built upon making these kinds of projects happen—on time, on budget, and consistent with the architect's vision.

The experience of our crews allows us to take on even the most demanding projects with a sensibility and confidence derived from accomplishment. Our proven ability to deliver quality results—without the missteps and errors in judgment that characterize the work of those less experienced—has earned us the trust of architects, developers, and contractors who have no margin for error. It is this trust that we value most, because it represents continuous affirmation that we are upholding our ideals as a landscape construction company. Our work may be defined by stone, soil, trees, and shrubs, but our company is defined by the strength of our relationships with our clients.

Maintaining an edge

At D. Schumacher Landscaping, we understand that construction is just a beginning. That's why we approach maintenance with the same relentless perfectionism that we bring to construction. Maintenance may lack the drama of construction, but it ensures that the impression of the original creation is faithfully preserved on an ongoing basis.

Our maintenance customers believe that landscaping is a living testament to their values and standards; that a healthy, well cared-for environment is a reflection of who they are. Likewise, it is a reflection of who we are and the quality of work that we perform.
